Simple Terms & Conditions for Freelance Creative Services

All project specifics, including the scope of work, deliverables, payment terms, and included revisions, will be mutually agreed upon through clear text correspondence (e.g., email or messaging) before project commencement. Payments are due as per this agreed schedule, with any late fees or charges for additional revisions also detailed within that correspondence.

Unless expressly agreed in writing as a "work for hire" arrangement, all creative and intellectual property rights for the work produced remain with the Artist until full and final payment has been received, at which point the Client will receive the necessary usage rights for the final deliverables. Furthermore, unless otherwise stated or specifically requested by the Client and agreed upon in writing, the Artist retains the right to use the completed work, or portions thereof, in their professional portfolio, website, and social media for self-promotional purposes.

In the event of project termination, payment for all work completed up to that point remains due.
